DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kohno U.S. Patent No. 5,042,619 in view of Fernandez-Holmann U.S. Patent No. 5,787,404.

Kohno discloses a system comprising, in combination: a scanner, a POS ; a card reader; a coin collector; a debit/credit card provider connected to the card reader (column 3, lines 46-68; column 4, lines 1-68).

Kohno fails to teach that said system automatically makes contributions to a savings program upon making a purchase with a card.

Fernandez-Holmann teaches such claimed limitations. Fernandez-Holmann discloses a credit-card based retirement fund system, wherein a percentage of a consumer's's purchase with a card is added to an investment account (column 2, lines 56-68; column 3, lines 1-4, 31-35).

1 To adapt Fernandez-Holmann's credit-card based retirement fund system to Kohno's
2 device, would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.
3 This would have been done with the purpose of providing an automatic funding of a retirement
4 or pension plan account which is not dependent on the workers employment situation and 5 which allows flexibility in cash flow for the consumer while maintaining a certain degree of 6 discipline in savings.

7 Kohno and Fernandez-Holmann also fail to teach the use of a debit-card and/or 8 calling-card purchases as contributing means to the retirement system, they simply disclose the 9 use of a credit card as such means. However, credit cards, debit cards, calling cards are all
10 considered art recognized equivalents since they all allow a consumer to make a purchase of a
11 good. To simply expand, Kohno in view of Fernandez-Holmann's teachings so as to include
12 debit and calling cards, would there for have been an obvious expedient to one of ordinary 13 skill in the art at the time of the invention. This would have been done in order to increase the 14 sources from which contributions could be made to the retirement plan.

15 Regarding claim 6, wherein it is claimed that the monetary amount includes a
16 percentage of a total sale amount at a point of sale, Fernandez-Holmann teaches such claimed 17 limitation (column 3, lines 32-35).

18 As for claims 7-8, 10, and 14-16, Fernandez-Holmann fails to teach the step wherein 19 the monetary amount includes a difference between a total sale amount at a point of sale and a

1 rounded up dollar value as well as other forms in which the amount of contribution is set. To 2 modify the amount of money that can be contributed to the savings or retirement plan is an
3 obvious modification to anyone of ordinary skill in the art. Therefore, to set the monetary
4 amount to be the difference between a total sale amount at a point of sale and a rounded up
5 dollar value, would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the 6 invention. This would have been done in order to give the purchaser flexibility in choosing
7 the amount he/she wishes to contribute to the savings/retirement plan.

8
9 Conclusion

10 3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's 11 disclosure.
